3. OLD BUSINESS

a. Horseshoe Foundation Grant

The Commission discussed the recent notification of denial from the Horseshoe Foundation. Councilman Lemon stated that we would need to readjust the scope of some of our projects and find another source of funding. Additionally, Councilman Lemon stated he would reapply for the Horseshoe Foundation Grant in the fall. Courtney stated she thought the Commission would be able to fund one of the smaller projects, such as the Cemetery Heritage Sign project, fully with the support of donations from the community.

b. Quick Impact Placebased Grant (Town Welcome Sign)

Councilman Lemon stated that the Commission was also declined for the QuIP Grant. He stated that the grant was the one of the most competitive with 38 applications and only enough funding for 13 communities to receive an award. The Commission discussed utilizing another grant organization to apply for funding the welcome sign.

c. Naming of street between HWY 150 and Harrison Street

The Commission discussed potential names for the street located between HWY 150 and Harrison Street. The street is the result of a recent extension of roadway by the Town. Out of the collective group of potential names, only one roadway was nominated by members. There was a motion by Chairman Uhl to name the roadway "Norman J. Colman Drive". Motion was seconded by Kim Hardin. The motion passed 6 – 0. Colman was the first principal in Greenville at the Floyd County Seminary in 1850's and went on to have a prominent political career and career in agriculture, eventually becoming the first ever US Secretary of Agriculture. The Commissions recommendation will be brought before the Town Council as an ordinance.

e. Floyd County Bicentennial Planning

The Commission discussed some bicentennial planning items. The potential for a parade and festival was discussed. Councilman Lemon stated that if this were going to come to fruition, there will need to be a subcommittee established to support such projects. Chairman Uhl discussed planning the John B Ford historical marker dedication with the Floyd County Bicentennial. Councilman Lemon stated we could lump in and release several other projects such as the Greenville Volunteer Fire Department research project, the Ephraim Girdner research, and the Cemetery Heritage Sign dedication ceremonies.

4. NEW BUSINESS

a. Historical Marker Applications

Chairman Uhl discussed the Commission's recent historic marker application approval by the Indiana Historic Bureau. A monumental success as the application process was again very competitive. There were some 40+ historic marker applications from communities around the state and only 15 or so were approved. This is a testament to the contributions John B. Ford made to industrialism in America and in Greenville and also a testament to the detailed research put together by the Commission. The Commission also discussed the Norman J Colman historic marker application which was also submitted but declined by the Indiana Historic Bureau.

b. Research projects for 2018 & 2019

The Commission discussed the complexity of the research projects and how dividing them up amongst Commission members would make the projects more easily manageable. Councilman Lemon was assigned the Ephraim Girdner research project. Mark Keeley was assigned the Roscoe Miller research project. Matt Uhl accepted the 1908 Fire research project.
